A figure Reminder to those who Beferred to the Baffalo Kandals.

At Hann, Jan 7—One of the grotesque features of the news which the democratic "insiders" here are carefully laboring to keep out of the newspapers relates to the intense and poissonous hadred cherished by Governor-Teveland toward everybody who alluded to the Buffalos candals concerning him during the campaign. Witham Purcell is his pet averaged, without Purcell is his pet averaged, witham Purcell is his pet averaged, without prepared for him hy-some of all the democratic editors and politicians of all the sorts who have in any way dealt with the subject, sarefully prepared for him hy-some of his newspaper friends, alphabetically arranged and with the actual offencer's pame. This black-list, which the governor is going to take to Washington, will be one of the most interesting features of the administration Feople who think services to the par'y tre likely to empdone little publication of that sort, will so in and intermine ally realize their mistake.

An ther droll thing here is the horror with which the governor's desire to put Carl Schurz in the calmet is regarded. The democratic are all up in arms about it, and can't understand why lee sland should dream of such a thing. They make sarrastic references to the obvious democratic losses in almost every place where Schulz sicke during the campaign. (a terming the girls' reformatory they seem to feel the same in actually and distrust. A leading paper of Mascachusetts, under date of May 9, BSSI, thus re-crist the same instatution.

"The monumental pile, built for 700 hoys and now containing less than 50, has never been evel adapted to the needs of a reformatory, being tao little of a prison for the worst leafs, it doo much so for the younger boys for whom Mr Livian designed the school for endowed tearly fort; years and I or six years list it has been fur too large, also, and has, theraform, required the annual outlay of $10,000 m are than the same number of init nees and proper function of such a school.

A year of two since the governor thus re-eried to it in his report.

"There were 10d boys in this school on the 30th day of september last. Their ages ranged from a years epward, and averaged 15% years. The trustees have agone and agone advised the reduction of the age at communent from 17 to 13 years, leaving older boys, governity the most hardened and desperate criminals, to has sen tenced as other offenders of the character. These older criminals are not only incorrigable, but they exactle a most permicious influence over all their young associates. Indeet the presents, stem the Westborough institution is not a reform school in any resonable sense. It is not a whool, but a nondescript prison and it fails to oring about the reformation of the age. The original and the school is a failure, and that has been made the subject of official communication by several of my predecesses. Why not modify the law of communication by several of my predecesses. Why not modify the law of communication by several of my predecesses. Why not modify the functoring the mustes to penal institutions? Then, with pro ser classification and separation, supplemented by the practice of probation, builing out, ing out, and underdual treatment, the aim of the fourier of the institution may be realized 11 a higher degree?

We shall have accasion later to allode to the better methods now employed of meeting cases of juvenite dolinquency in this state (Alassachusetts) which, with the acknowledged failure of the old method, accounts for the reduced number of boys detained in this great asylum. Inder date of (Nober, 1981, the opening address of the president of the national conference of charities and correction (Mr. Letchforth, charman of the New York state board of Abarilies; says.

"In our work for home ess children and juvenile offenders, it appears to me that our present system is greatly a fault in not observing a stricter classification in the commitment of different classification in the commitment of different classes of children, one stutions, and in not maintaining a proper classification by transfer affertwards, as their characters are better understood. * It is still more important to reform the defining of youth without the institution, rather than within it. We should by to lessen the number of inmate in institutions of all kinds, prather than here ase them, especially in institutions is something to be used only as a last resort."

The report (1884) of the Connecticut reform echool at Meriden, which is in part conducted under the 'amily system, alludes strongly to the value of separation ind classes and cottage, where life may be as nearly as pass he like a the way by which they have come.

But without end-avoring to impress this trite truth, I shall is wisfer to a method which, under different names, seems, so far as society has a duty, to more nearly meet the problem of cast-off and reprobate children than any "line of battle" institut in as yet has done. If has the ment of great simplicity and of being the evolution of pain has it instinct. If you or I were in court some day, and just as sentence was prenouncing upon a youthful entirely, should ask the judge's leave to become spensor? Habilitate his plun, with so much of system and sympathy from they state as is needed to give it efficiency, and you have a description of whit is actually going on in several of our states at the present time. In Massichusetts, beginning with soft appointed voluntary effort, there now exists a system of such and heart. It is thou duty, like angel of justice—I say just on, more than mercy—to stand between law and gospol, are middle in-n between law and gospol, are middle in-n between law and gospol, are middle in-n between law and gospol, searchers of records," "brokers" in the woes and wants, of simal learts, go betweens, for those who can inswer their needs or monit their perverse wills. TAXES AND TAX LAWS.

TO THE FILTOR OF THE ORE ANXING TOUR COTTESPONDENT OF TRAINING CREATING THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE OREGINA AND THE ORIGINAL TH equal taxation and many statements which in equal traction in the many statements which in the main are uncombtedly true. But if I may be permitted to criticise I would say that in his viriose article he seems to float around the high or pith of his subject. Also it seems to me that some of his conclusions or statements are un-tenable, as we will try to show. Without a doubt it would be better and more just that the burden of taxation should fall upon all proportions, but how to obtain this equity is the righ. Our system of taxation at present does not sawing it. The great trouble is we tax credits too much The great trouble is we tax credits too much They bear more than their just proportion of the burdens of taxation. There is a vast quantity of property in the bands of the so-called deb or class of the state which have for a long time and do now evade taxation, for more than there is in the hands of the creditor class, even before the advent of the so-called mortgage tax law which mry be proven to ady one who will law which may be proven to any one who will take the trouble to inspect the assessment of almost any county. Thus by inspection it will be found that the assessment of almost any piece of real property will be overcome and wheel out by a mortgage upon such property for me-third of its purchase price. The real property which a man owns in this county is worth at least time times the value of this credits, but he may at least one and a best time. its, but he pays at least one and a half times more fax upon his credits than he pays upon his real property. With such inequality as this it is not surprising that credits try to evale taxation by getting into a more congenit clima, some where cutside of the influence of the taxing largest this class. where outside of the influence of the taxing laws of this state Your correspondent assumes that mortgages and predite. Also the mortgage tax law seems to be based upon this supposition. But a fittle thrught on this subject will show it to be a initiation did in the subject will show it to be a initiation did in the mortgage that A of Multinomal county loans $1000 to 1 of Marion county, receiving therefor B inote or promise to pay, secured by a mortgage in on B's read property in Marion county. In this transaction, which may represent any transaction where a mortgage is created. B's note represents B's ability of A's credits. The mortgage is the security or piedge given by B to A that he will perform a certain set, as payment of the mortgage of this note carries with it a transition of the mortgage But a transfer of the mortgage does not necessarily transfer the note. The note is good without the mortgage, and can be enforced independent of it. The mortgage alds not intrinsic value to the note, except as it in creases the certainty of B's performing his prompse. And hence it follows that the intrinsic value of the mortgage does secure the payment of a note for $1000 against Mr. W. S. Land would be of not intrinsic value to the note, as explained in a note for $1000 against Mr. W. S. Land would be of not intrinsic value to the cortgage tax in wrequires such mortgage to be assessed at an arbitrary and fixed value arrespective of its untrinsic value of the course of the cortgage to be considered from pryment of a certain promisery note. New for the purpose of texation the mortgage to New for the purpose of texation the mortgage tax as we parter A's mortgage to be considered real property, and to be assessed in Marion county, where A's mortgage to be considered real property, and to be assessed in Marion county, where A's mortgage to be considered real property, and to be assessed in Marion county, where A's mortgage to be considered real property, and to be assessed in Marion county, where A's mortgage to be considered real property, and the same way it as not any the substraction and the substraction and the substract indebtedness in the state. Neither do the credi-tors of this state necessarily represent the rich class. The rich men of Oregon, with but lew exceptions, are not money-lenders, and they do not evade taxation by the non-assessment of their personal property. They have a bauten way to accompaish this, if they feel so disposed, by claiming indebtedness, either real or fictions, and hence your correspondent's plea for the poor, and tirade against the rich is hardly applicable to the subject. It is true, as your correspondtirade against the rich is hirdly applicable to the subject. It is true, as your correspondent and any that the rich ed of inherest is exceptible it. But the money lander is not reep notifile for this, as be infinites, in more them the farmer would be? wheat should unexpectedly advance to $1 per bushel. And what a mean man the farmer would be if he should unexpectedly advance to $1 per bushel. And what a mean man the farmer would be if he should sell his wheat at that price? This is the force of your correspondent's trace upon the money lender. For there is no difference of irradiples in the farmer selting his wheat for what it will fetch and he money lender in loaning his money at such rate as it will fetch

East Portland, Jan 5.

If the law was repealed would not the same condition return? In the years 1981-2, before the advant of the mortgage tax law morey was rendify obtuned at 3 per cent. and now after nearly two years of expeanence under the law one can rarely effect a tom for less. But agont mortgages were not exemp from taxinion before the advant of mortgage tax law and of the conditions the content of the conditions that existed before it became a law, and for this reason it night to be repealed it would be a great hencit to the people of this state to have a tetum of the same concil in not the money market wind cate of the conditions that existed before it became a law, and for this reason it ought to be repealed it would be a great hencit to the people of this state to have a tetum of the same concil in not the money market wind rate of the conditions that existed before it became a law, and for this reason it ought to be repealed it would be a great hencit to the people of this state to have a tetum of the same concil in not the money market wind rate of the result of that law it is preason would essappear and also that all property, the clause of examination of the burdens of taxation. Of course exact provisions and two points which it numerous changes whylwe should endure the present moustice. If all property other than credits were valued the same as a credits, at their full cash value, this one quality would not exact and at mortgage upon a piece of real property for one-third of its jurchase pince would not exempt the real property of the state two differences are carry out these provisions and two points, it is the content single the vertex required to the them assessed value of the property of the state two of three times, the amount of revenue required But be long as an increase in the assessed value of the property of the state two of three times, the amount of revenue required But be long as an increase in the assessed value of the property of the state two of three times, the amount of revenue required But be long a is not a produce such reads, and which is done to will remove one of the great causes that prevents assessing property at its cash value.

To illustrate Suppose that this state requires trevenue of $200,000. Let the legislative apportion this amount among the several countres of the grouperty of each of such countres. Let $50,000 represent Multinomah country's proportion. Now if our country combinsomer would estimate the funds necessary to pay the current expenses of the country at a gross amount, say $30,000, and then add this amount to that required by the state, there would be a levy of this amount of $60,000 as a lax upon the property of the country. After the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is completed, take the assessment roll of the country is country would morely reduce the rate per cent. and hence would not increase the try levy. This remedy is very sumple, but is capable of accomplishing great rosuls.

But if our legislature should take a differential they should make such provisions as will require all property is assessment to the first is so in the same proportion to the whole of his true rate credits chould the be assessed in the other of the delite of a debtor which he should be allowed to his property bears to its cash value.

But the subject of the country and the whole of his indebtedness as the assessment value of the property bears to its cash value.

SALMON HATCHING.

I BIDAY MORNING JANUARY 16 1895 Explorations on the Waters of the Columbia River

Report of the Secretary of the Oregon Introduction of Mil. Reference to Selection of a Pir a for Establishment

2. The region through which the rail and passes was one of the wildest postions of the banted States till the railroad was built through it, and is now only sparsed settled and very poorly furtished with supplies. The expense and icconvenience of building and can jung on a salmon-hatching station anywhere in this region would consequently be very great, so great, todeed, as to render the undertaking strindly impracticable.

nodeed, as to render the undertasting structure in practicable.

8 The Indians on the Fend d'Oreille river, or, not re properly spealing, the Fend d'Oreille d'utient of Clorke's Flort, have always held undisjuted possession of their wild and regred enoyen, and are extremely jealous of the intrasou of white men.

undisputed possession of heir wild and regred carryon, and are extremely jealous of the naturation of white men.

I are informed that they have driver out all white men who have come in there to settle, a prime face evidence of which is found in the fet that there are no whate settlers there at this day except the fur trader just mentioned. I need not say that this would be a e-ions of jection to the establishment of a start in there, is no one condition that white mentioned in the end of the line of the provided they respire the northern in dams might do at any moment in a remote and unumbalities place like the carryon of the Pend of Ornelle, provided they respire that they would I wish to not, lower, by way of explanation, that I do not consider the country in question usafe for white men to travel through, nor is there any likelihood of an outbreak by the malive inhibit tails along the river. I do not mean that either of these things is probable. What I mean to say is that, if an ind body of white men should go into the camon to stay and their presence should be observed in the start of tarks it is at ind body of white men should go into the camon to stay and their presence should be observed in the first of the country they would probal v find some means of getting and of the obnovious introders. I solve the falls, near sental-wideen, to the month of tarks I ork, and from there on the columbia to the month of Spake river, any place, however favorable on other accounts, would be out of the question as a collecting and distributing point for almon eggs on account of its extance from the railroad and its general inaccessibility. I will additiant there is hardly a single while man to be found in that whole region of nearly 10,600 square miles, embraced

It might be thought that if a station was es-

The river is hardly over exty feet in width at low water, and quate shallow a quarter of a mile from its mouth and a river of this size would not carry a sufficient volume of water to induce salmon enough to enter it to furnish any great number of eggs in these times of cameries, for it should be remembered that the immense canning operations carried on along the Columbia river have entirely revolutionized matters as far as the abundance of salmon eggs is concerned. Twenty years ago before the business of camming salmon on the Columbia was inaururated, salmon hterally awarmed up all the small crock, salmon berally awarmed up all the small crock, salmon berally awarmed up all the small crock, and little tributaries of the man river mach mose quantities that several million eggs could without doubt have been easily collected from the spawming islaid the head of comparatively misignificant streams, but that day has gone by probably foreign. The visit number of nets that are being continually dragged through the water at the cameries on the british river dwing the fishing season catch in bons of full-grown salmon on their way up the river to spinwn, and of contrast reduce to a corresponding extent the number of parent fish that reach the spinwing grounds. The comparatively few that sacceed in mount gibe guantied of the innumberable nets in the main river would it hely ecould in gathered together at one sport the nick, miscaid of all going to one plans separate and divide up among the hundreds of trituta ies, hundred up among the hundreds of trituta ies, large and small, that help to form the great Columbia consequently a very small pen entage, indeed, of the few salmon that got by the nets, instead of all going to one plans separate and divide up among the hundreds of trituta ies, large and small, that help to form the grant Columbia are should be a good one for a large and small the wall wall applies also to the Unitality and the columbia for the columbia these have not, but none of them, with this one exception, combine all the needful conditions.

It seems at first that this should be so. It seems surprising that there are not many points along the hundreds of miles of the Columbia and its northern fork where plenty of salmon eggs could be obtained and distributed, but nevertheless there are not. As this presents such a curious and interesting question, let us glance for a moment at the conditions that are required for the operating of a large and successful salmon breeding station, and in order of living but the subject with more distributions. I will quanterate these conditions and consider them in regular order. Taking them in the order of their telative importunce there is the interest them in regular order. Taking them in the order of their telative importunce there is the interest them in the order of their telative importunce the stem in present themselves nearly as follows.

A characteristic of the order of collability water of Covenience of location for obtaining water for the breeding summer.

A reality for arresting the injurial progress of the breeding summer.

All NDANCI OF REFIDENCE ALMON—This first condition, viz., of the presence of an alumnate supply of salmon, is such an obytons one that nothing more need be said about it. Of course there thus be plenty of salmon for a salmon-breeding station without the salmon, would be like the play of Humlet without the part of Humlet. The Unatilli and Walla Walla rivers are examples of rivers possessing all the colditions just enumerated, except this one in abundance of salmon.

conditions just enumerated, except this one in abundance of salmon.

AR(PSSBFFT) OF I CLAFION—Ha disjuss indispensable than the abundance of salmon is the accessibility of a silmon breeding location. If it is so fur removed from the traveled thancoughlares that the station could not be built, nor the eggs disturbed, except at a cost that would practically be a production) one, the total than is of course of no value, no matter how abundant the salmon are of how favorable the other conditions in a period directly which cannot be approached within 50 or 100 miles, except by very balification and trails are illustrations of the steme of the essential element of accessibility.

AN ALEGRAY WALFRESUPPLY—Next in rank of importunce seems to come the presence of sufficient and suitable supply of water for latching. Where the condition is wanting it is hardly worth while either to go to the expense of putting in particular works or to make the attempt to collect a large number of eggs, for, although, provided there is a considerable water supply, a correspondingly large number of eggs may often be mainred for allignment or batched, averaging a large years of care and water is not only always a source of care and

It will be a very easy matter to build I dant or salmon rack across the river to keep title breeders on or near the seming ground. Indeed, that frail structure that we saw indians successfully orecting across the river shows how easy it would be for white men, with their superior appliances, to put a salmon rack across the properson of a salmon-breeding station. There being no drouth or freshet on the river during the season's operations. There being no drouth or freshet on the river during the season's operations. I the station—and indeed no natural changes at all in the river, such as great advantage, as it often proves a very difficult matter in a river subject to fishers in the batiching season to put in an obstruction that is perfectly safe.

And last, but not least, the maximum use of the river during the year is so inconsiderable that there will heave be any danger of the batiching louse and other buildings being washed away, even if they are placed, as it is desirable they should be close to the river.

Besides possessing the ossential qualitations pust enumerated for a salmon breeding station, the spokane for all may be a desirable during the rainy season, which is an advantage that can be fully appr

By glancing one which has just been wait about the mouth of the Little Spokene it will be seen that it is known to be, in all the exsent it points but one, an unusually favorible location for a salmon breeding set on. It it should prove to be capable of furnis mer an abundance of breeders, i should not nest at to recommend it emphatically as one of the best situations to, be found anywhere for axing and distribution, salmon eggs. If, however, it should full to supply the required quantity of sawming salmon, do not know where to look for any one place on the Columbia treef or the North Fort which is itself would be note indicated to the necessity of going farther from the rathroy of creating two or three separates stations at different points.
